GEORGES is a publishing house with a singular journey. We publish Georges and Graou, 2 innovative bookzines for kids. Next came the adventures of our first picture books and comics.

Our books and magazines share a common approach, both ambitious and playful, and an elegant but dynamic graphic design. Georges, that's also an unconventional tone and a happy and joyful world.

We are fascinated by contemporary illustration, design, and typography. We work on every project with the greatest care. More than anything we believe in the natural curiosity of children. That's why we offer them new aesthetic and editorial horizons.

➔ OUR CHILDREN'S MAGAZINES

are two creative, ads-free children's magazines.

Fun, joyful, and beautiful, they give children an innovative, ambitious, and creative rendezvous every two months. Each new issue stimulates curiosity and imagination, in an invitation to both learn and have fun.

100% illustrated, our magazines awaken the eyes, putting the work of gifted contemporary illustrators in the spotlight. They attach great value to texts and images free from commonplaces and stereotypes.

- › 3 TO 6 YEAR-OLDS
- › SINCE 2017
- › 44 PAGES
- › 21 x 27,7 cm
- › 9,90 €

SEEN IN THE PRESS:

"Without publicity like its elder brother, and sharing its graphic identity, Graou offers every two months 36 pages filled with thoroughly illustrated content on a very beautiful, thick paper..."

Some kind of Georges for the little ones, just as colourful, witty, playful, and smart."

GRANDIR AUTREMENT

"A dynamic cover, modern and impeccably designed illustrations, a clever title that makes one want to say it over and over, graou, graou, graou... [...] It is clever, it is smart, it is joyful!"

CITROUILLE HEBDO

"It focuses on early learnings, manual skills and autonomy. The aesthetics are at a crossroads between vintage influences and clean graphic lines."

➔ OUR PICTURE BOOKS

In the wake of Georges, we published our first books. They are born of beautiful encounters with authors and illustrators who participated in the magazine.

Our picture books combine strong graphic identities with sensitive texts. They invite both children and grown-ups to nurture their sense of curiosity together, and to share in the pleasure of reading.

The Awesome Space Weekend (temporary title)

ASTROPHYSICIST AND COSMOGRAPHER

- › ASTRONOMY
- › SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY
- › FRIENDSHIP
- › HUMOUR

It is a beautiful evening as Platy, Beaver, and Rat go out on a camping weekend.

There is a surprise for them: their friend Rat is hosting them in his observatory, which sits on top of a tree. The tree house is beautiful, and fully equipped for the most incredible discoveries : the sky, the stars, our galaxy, infinity... In a word, astronomy !

Whether it is to understand the difference between meteorites, comets and asteroids by looking at a stone, to discover light – both visible and invisible – by witnessing the apparition of a rainbow, or to learn how to find the North star while playing pirates... Everything in their explorations is an excuse to ask questions, for a better understanding of our universe.

Gaëlle Alméras : after a fashion design degree and a technical formation in graphic design, Gaëlle is interested in communication, stage design, and textile screen printing. Passionate about arts, science and nature, she is an author, an illustrator, and works as a mediator in a planetarium. Thanks to her enthusiasm, she generates curiosity and brings very simple answers to the most complicated questions.

Page after page in this giant coloring book, propositions follow one another: you can come up with colourful patterns to draw on the sails, hoist the flag while filling it with stripes and geometrical figures, imagine the tatoos on a sailor's arm, create a pattern on the swimmer's bikini, represent your family on towels at the beach, or draw fish or fantastical creatures inside the fishermen's nets. A formidable and unique invitation to graphic expression revolving around the sea, combined with the creation of 12 detachable posters which can in turn become decorations, or even be gifted to your friends.

Lisa Laubreaux graduated from the Duperré school in 2001. As an illustrator, she develops a multi-field practice that allows her to work with engraving and screen printing, as well as risography. Her colourful aesthetics characterize her universe, as well as her strong pattern usage and simple lines, which transcribe with the world around her with a playful eye. Oh my Boat! is her first book.

An ecological tale significantly questioning the relationship between man and his environment, and the balance between cities and nature.

At the beginning, there was nothing. Nothing at all. Of course, there were a few trees, here and there. But that was almost nothing. Here, there were birds perched in the branches, a fox, and a few rabbits... Next to nothing. Over there, there was a pond, a river, and even a heron that used to fish from time to time. Nothing else. After all, that was already a lot. But, to Mister C, it was not enough. As far as he was concerned, there was nothing at all.

In this book, "nothing" and "everything" are a matter of perspective. The cleverly built story revolves around the word "nothing", repeated like a song, to help to see the world from a higher view.

The illustrations were made using carved wooden pieces, an ancient Chinese technique. The shapes were hand-printed, then scanned to compose the images digitally.

Julien Billaudeau : a graduate from the Estienne school and Paris' École Nationale des Arts Décoratifs, Julien Billaudeau put all of his sensitivity, graphical language and poetic writing in this album. Nothing At All is his first book as both an author and an illustrator. He already illustrated many other children's books.

Panpi and Gorri are cousins and they spend all their time together. In turn, they are stuntmen, explorers, detectives: their imagination makes every little event of life into a great, homemade adventure. These pieces of childhood are full of wit, accurate, and tender, without ever being mawkish. Panpi and Gorri are incredibly clear-headed, like two real philosophers: "Hey, you just agreed with me, it's weird... Yes, it's uncanny, I feel like we're missing something".

In the latest must-have in children's comic books, Panpi and Gorri invent a daily life full of humour and complicity.

SEEN IN THE PRESS:

"Thanks to their whimsy, their boldness, and their logic, Panpi and Gorri turn their everyday life into an field of adventure. A must-have for mischievous minds, and a recommandation to all others."

Philippe-Jean Catinchi – LE MONDE

"Panpi and Gorri explore the limitless universe of playful childhood. [...] The fast-paced storytelling is reminiscent of Tom and Lili (in Adventure Box)."

Stéphanie Estournet – LIBÉRATION

"[...] tasty, efficient, and humorous little tales, with a few full-page illustrations here and there as well as graphical bonuses [...]. This album is full of life, of positive energy, and invigorating colours. In line with the works of Anouk Ricard of Marc Boutavant, I can only invite you to dive deep into Marie Novion's universe. It is worth it!"

In this volume, Panpi and Gorri are more determined than ever to secure their rights, and when they create the Awesome League for the Rights of Puppies, they meet new accomplices!

Rythmed by chiseled and witty dialogues, this album compiles 16 stories, featuring : Panpi's new sneakers, Gorri the king of slackers, but also a cooking class, and the invention of the Pizza Supersonic, a pizza-teleporting machine that cooks and delivers at the same time!

Marie Novion : an author and an illustrator for the press and children's publishing houses, Marie grew up in the Basque Country. She left when she was 20 years old to study at the École de l'image in Épinal, and then pursued her artistic education at Saint-Étienne's Beaux-Arts. She then settled in Lyon, where she co-created Maison Komiki, a publishing house for a collective comic-book magazine.

Anna lives in Wuppertal, a city with a remarkable suspension railway... One evening, during supper, she hears on the radio that the circus' elephant (who had taken the railway to advertise the show) has fallen from the coach into the water. Anna decides to walk Tuffi the elephant to the boat that will bring him home...

This album, with its retro colouring (using crayons and ink), draws its inspiration from a true story that happened on the 21st of July, 1950 in Wuppertal, Germany.

A shopping list, a wallet with marbles in it, a switch with butter stains on it... This graphic picture book inventories the unexpected treasures one can find at home: inside Mom's purse, in the kitchen cupboard, and so on.

Each page also invites to play a game:
 "there is only one earring in Mom's purse, where's the other one?", "What objects don't belong in the freezer?", "How many animals can you spot in the bedroom?"...

At long last, here is a beautiful, contemporary picture book with which young, modern families can relate.
